Cookies

Some websites store information in a small text file called a "cookie" on your hard disk. Cookies contain information about you and your preferences. For example, it might contain a record of which pages within the site you visited, to help the site customise the view for you the next time you visit.

Only the information that you provide, or the choices you make, while visiting a website can be stored in a cookie. For example, the site cannot determine your email address unless you choose to type it. Allowing a website to create a cookie does not give that or any other site access to the rest of your computer and only the site that created the cookie can read it.

BemroseBooth will only use the cookies created to personalise and secure your experience. What this means is that when you use the BemroseBooth website it will be able to keep certain settings for you for when you return. It also means that you do not need to pass security details on every screen as we store them for you during the time you spend browsing our site.

Choice of Law and Jurisdiction.

These terms and conditions are subject to the laws of England and by using the Service you agree not only to be bound by them, but also agree to submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of the English courts in connection with any dispute save that we have the right at our sole discretion to commence and pursue proceedings in alternative jurisdictions.

General Information.

We reserve the right to change these terms and conditions at any time. Such revised terms and conditions will be posted on the Service. By continued use of the Service after such terms and conditions have been posted, you agree to abide by such changes.
